President Financial CEO Quoted in Story “The Morale Stimulus Plan”

For Immediate Release - September 15, 2010

ATLANTA – In the September issue of The Secured Lender, the publication focused on human capital issues. In the story entitled “The Morale Stimulus Plan”, Presidential CEO Tom Matthesen was asked to discuss some of his thoughts related to employee morale.

“The major things aren’t always about money and bonuses and raises. For us, it’s about staying focused on our vision, celebrating wins, and reminding ourselves why we do what we do,” said Matthesen. “This year, we set a very large sales goal, but the goal is not only for the sales team. The entire company is involved and motivated because it’s all about the vision. And each time we celebrate a win along the way, the pride, the sense of accomplishment, and, frankly, the feeling we get just because it’s fun to win, creates a bond that overcomes any challenges the economy can throw our way.”
